Cornell JD/MBA

What will the JD/MBA do for me?

Whether you want solid management skills to enhance your legal career or aspire to business leadership with legal expertise, the JD/MBA provides you with the capabilities and experience you need. Interested in corporate law? Your knowledge of business functions and corporate decision-making will give you a professional edge. Mergers and acquisitions? You'll be proficient in performing due diligence from corporate and legal perspectives, evaluating all relevant information and making sound decisions.

If you're interested in corporate-level real estate, your legal skills will serve you well in development and transactions; your business acumen will help ensure financial success. If you're an entrepreneur, you'll be able to develop solid business plans and understand the legal complexities of establishing new entities or protecting intellectual properties.

Our JD/MBA graduates have excelled in all these areas and in many more.

Why Cornell? Both Johnson and Cornell University Law School are top of their class and foster a collegial, close-knit community for JD/MBA students. You'll have direct access to faculty who are renowned experts in their fields. Combining academic studies with leading-edge research, Cornell is a hub of activity in knowledge transfer and economic development worldwide — perfect for entrepreneurs. Finally, Cornell's exceptional network of alumni, faculty, and corporate partners helps you connect and explore opportunities as you develop your career.

How it works. Complete your JD/MBA in three years with the One-Year MBA, or in four years with the Two-Year MBA. The Two-Year MBA (Four-Year JD/MBA) pathway can begin either at Johnson or at the Law School. The One-Year MBA (Three-year JD/MBA) pathway begins at the Law School. You must meet the requirements for admission for both schools. Applicants who apply to the dual-degree program concurrently are eligible for joint scholarship consideration.

Timing	Procedure
	Three-year JD/MBA	Four-Year JD/MBA (two options for sequence)
		OPTION A	OPTION B
