

Cornell University
Law School

HEC
PARIS

Law, Culture and Development in Global Legal Environment

June 20th, 2009 (Saturday), from 9 am to 6:30 pm
Maison franco japonaise, room 601 (6th floor)

Annelise RILES (Professor of Law, Cornell University)

Leïla CHOUKROUNE (Assistant Professor of Law, HEC Paris School of Management)

Isabelle GIRAUDOU (Researcher, Maison franco-japonaise)

AIKYO Masanori (Professor of Law, Nagoya University)

Karen KNOP (Professor of Law, Toronto University)

Gilles LHUILIER (Professor of Law, South Brittany University)

Ralf MICHAELS (Professor of Law, Duke University)

Eva PILS (Assistant Professor of Law, Chinese University of Hong Kong)

Summary

While the mobility of law across borders is not a new phenomenon, the recent emergence of new practices in the diffusion and reception of rules has incontestably renewed legal norms and development circulation's theory.

In an attempt to address these legal transformations from a multidisciplinary and multifaceted perspective, this international seminar will discuss the many moves of law, from globalization of law to law under globalization.

By focusing respectively on three different ranges of issues (law and development; legal pluralism and the rule of law; multiculturalism and private international doctrine/theory), the speakers will deal with the complex nature of a possible transnational rule of law, as well as with the structural impacts of the globalization on and of law.

Institut de recherche de la Maison
franco-japonaise
UMIFRE 19 CNRS-MAE

Maison franco-japonaise
Bureau français
3-9-25 Ebisu, Shibuya-ku
150-0013 TOKYO

Other Information (Monday-Friday,
9:30 am - 6 pm)
Tel : 03-5421-7641 / Fax : 03-5421-7651
Website : <http://www.mfj.gr.jp>

